 Liaison Meeting with CABOLT

Action: None

Ref: BEMA-66572, 21 May 1965

1. Because CABOLT was on sick leave most of the summer, [] [] was unable to see him and personally say farewell. Therefore [] during a routine liaison visit to the CAVIRIL offices, dropped by CABOLT's office in early September and expressed [] regrets at not having a chance to say goodbye in person. CABOLT expressed polite regrets at the departure of another American friend with whom he had had pleasant relations.

2. [] assured CABOLT that [] and his other old friends stood ready as always to help his son get settled at a U.S. university at some future time, and that [] would be happy to notify the proper persons when the time came. CABOLT was touched by this offer, and obviously appreciated it, but stated it would probably be next fall before this trip would be a serious possibility. His reaction to the unstated but obvious fact that KUBARK did not intend to introduce him to another "special" contact seemed to be one of relief. He was pleasant and went out of his way to service one or two minor requests [] had on this occasion.

3. As stated in reference, we will continue to see him in a completely overt liaison fashion, on the same basis as other CAVIRIL officers in equivalent positions, but will not single him out for special attention.
